Dear parents/carers

We have made it to the end of a full and eventful half-term! I hope that everyone in the school community will be able to use the next week to rest and recharge. Do please look after yourselves and come back ready to step into the Christmas season. Christmas is always a special and magical time for children and we are looking forward to making it a very special time for the pupils at Ewhurst.

During next week it would be wonderful if children could take the time to create a Christmas card. The MP for Guildford, Angela Richardson, has launched her Christmas Card competition. She is looking for Christmas-themed designs using pencils, pens or paint. It should be completed on A4 in portrait. More details are in the attached flyer. Once completed, please bring the designs to school on Tuesday 1 November, so we can pass them to the MP's office.

This coming season is one where we are doing a number of marketing and fundraising initiatives for the school. I should be very grateful for your support with these, whether it is distributing the Open Morning flyers (many thanks to the Governors for organizing these), sharing by word of mouth the wonderful aspects of our school or by getting tickets for the Governors' Gig – the Fabulous Nobodies – on Saturday 19 November. Do also please pencil in Saturday 10 December for the Christmas Fair.

Finally, can I please encourage all families to do plenty of reading over the holiday. I love the phrase 'books give you wings'. They are a fantastic tool to stretch horizons and develop imagination. I am currently reading a science-fiction book with my son almost every evening. I feel like we are on a science-fiction journey together and to chat about books just before bedtime is always a special time. I hope you find the same opportunities in the week ahead. I also hope that we can do more in the coming months to promote reading at the school – if you have any innovative ideas do let me know!

Have a wonderful half-term break!

Best wishes,

Mr. Walters
